

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A washer toss game, incorporating a pair of housings, each is formed as a box for resting upon the ground, each box being integrally molded of a polymer, or other materials, having a perimeter wall around its periphery, and a central but integral sleeve extending upwardly from the center portion of the formed box.

The sleeve extends upwardly from its base. A can, such as a metallic paint can, which has had its bottom removed, can be located within the sleeve, in an upright position, to furnish one method for scoring a bulls-eye, but the can may be removed and inverted, for providing an easier method for attaining a bulls-eye upon participation in this washer toss game.